

Sometimes exposing your thoughts can be cathartic.

resurrecting my Comic site doesn't look like it will be in the cards any time soon. I was always worried that this will happen, that if I took a break from my comic to work on my concept skills that I would never get back to it. I may just opt to post everything I've done here in the original gallery and make this place my home. Just basically consolidate all 3 sites into this one. As of late I haven't drawn much recently either, just been catching up on some of the old school games I missed when I had a shitty computer/good computer but mac/ect. What's going on with my life as of late is that I'm about to find out if I get accepted into med school. If I get into med school then eventually I can land a rather decent job and run around bottomless through the whole house rather than my room. Fingers crossed people!

*Continuing to exercise and loose weight- which is a good thing. But find I am constantly at odds with the way my dad thinks. I told him that I don't "think, or feel" overly male or female- just something nutty and between. He didn't like this at all and practically yelled "YOU ARE NEUTTEERRRR????!!!" at me in the gym. I don't personally care about how my own personality works, But my father who is very old-fashioned sees the world in a very black and white sort of way. To him, if you are not male or female.. then you are probably gay. I can honestly say Most of my best friends are all weirdos, furies, trannys, fetishistas, and it hurts me when my dad calls them losers, because it's indirectly calling me a loser too. Anyway, in the chat I've been hanging out at, the fellas have been feeding my mechanical obsessions by schooling me in WWII tanks (the flavor of the month). I take any of this newly learned info and find my dad (who actually loves talking about this stuff) and he doesn't approve of it because "no women enjoy talk of tanks and weapons." ..Yeah.. I know what your looking for dad, grand children.

..This also brings me to the fact that I recently told a couple of guys (and a lady) that I was into Sentient machines. Even after I just told myself that I wouldn't be talking about that shit again. This time things were different though. Nobody thought I was a horrible person, and nobody saw the thing that I was into as being any worse than what they were hopelessly into. After this, We were free to pass luscious pictures of tanks and jets and robots around like a full box of tic-tacs in a room full of shitty garlic mouths. This has been going on for almost 2 weeks and its gggrrrrreeeeeeaaaaattttt especially when you are waiting for the star citizen DFM to be playable. Aww gawd.

Check out my new waifu:

PL-01 stealth tank. I'll be in my bunk.

oh btw.. new draws in the original tab..

I do also understand your father regarding some things as I myself am also not happy with all the changes that are being made in this world (and I can't really be old-fashioned as I'm not THAT old. I know change of the world itself is okay (think about technology and stuff), but change in morality and normality... twisting facts... HMMMM. XD XD XD But you should just be yourself. Accept yourself for both WHAT and WHO you are. ❤️ ❤️ ❤️ ❤️

With understanding you father, I mean mostly the seeing the world black and white and wanting grandchildren (I mean, I could understand that my parents would also want to have grandchildren).

But calling your friends losers and saying you can't like tanks or weapons because you are female... that's not very cool...

You don't have to act overly masculine or feminine if you're a man or a woman. Being a man or woman is just something you biologically are, but it doesn't have to decide your personality. So it's WHAT you are, but not necessarily WHO. And I think you should just feel cool for being a woman and liking tanks and stuff, because it's more exceptional and thus more unique! :p Hahaha! 😊 you are still around. Glad to see you are seemingly doing ok! Hooray for new draws! Hooray for tanks! And shit, I am coming to accept the fact that I am trans, even though I am not out to my family at all. Especially afraid of telling my dad. I feel you there in a way. Life is scary.

Hope that you get in to school and rule that shit!
